About the Author

Nancy Stevens

Nancy Stevens, a Seattle native, studied interior design and art at Seattle University. She and her [then] Army husband began married life by moving to Germany. The couple was stationed at numerous US military installations and her husband deployed to both Vietnam and Korea. They raised two kids and, after 45 years of marriage, Nancy suddenly discovered her husband had found another woman and was divorcing her. The next ten years were spent navigating an unimaginable divorce. Nancy hopes her experiences and lessons learned will be helpful to those facing similar journeys. All the facts in this author bio are true except for the name, Nancy Stevens. She prefers to keep her identity private for reasons that will become obvious when you read her unimaginable story.
