

Clovercroft Publishing

307 Verde Meadow Drive
Franklin, TN 37067

For Immediate Release

Contact: Rob Johnson
Media@JourneyToDivorce.com
201-856-7530

I'm Divorcing You – Now What?

The frightening, chilling words, “I’m divorcing you,” render many women frozen, paralyzed - not knowing what to do or where to turn. What will he do to me? What about my children? Can he take the house? The first steps taken in those first days can set the stage for the level of difficulty, fear, and anxiety in the divorce process ahead. Women need to know what to do first and next and next. But how do they find out?

Nancy Stevens lived this horrific process from not knowing where to turn, to information overload, and then transitioning from one attorney to another when ‘new’ situations surfaced. She reveals her journey in Now What? Navigating an Unimaginable Divorce (Clovercroft Publishing, ISBN 9781950892). Her goal is to help guide women to find the right answers early, leading to a less arduous, less expensive, less tumultuous journey when contemplating or already experiencing the divorce process.

As a contented Army wife, married for forty-six years to a career Army officer, Nancy was faced with a cheating husband who, after conducting a clandestine affair, suddenly decided to divorce her. In thirty-one heart-breaking chapters, Nancy relates the twists and turns dealing with a narcissistic, pathologically lying husband, a scheming mistress who becomes the second wife, a military bureaucracy that protects its own, the trauma of legal issues and bankruptcy manipulation, ugly depositions and contentious court appearances.

With creativity and humor, Nancy’s account reveals both struggle and hope. The keys for her readers: helpful insights and strategies; cogent advice and take-aways at the end of each chapter; all enhanced with words of encouragement throughout. Together, these advisories will help other women move through the process with more confidence, less fear and, hopefully, receive what is rightfully theirs. An extensive selection of resources will help readers searching for answers on who can guide them, how to prepare, and how to protect themselves as they take follow their own journey through divorce.

Attorneys, counselors, and military authorities have carefully reviewed and reflected about the value and benefits of this book. John T. Winkler, Attorney at Law states, "Some divorce books are entertaining or emotional while others instructional and advisory . . . this is both. It's the first book to pick up for a person contemplating divorce - especially a military divorce . . . this is a must read to arm one's self prior to battle . . . should be read before hiring an attorney or diving deep into the divorce process."

-more -

About the Author

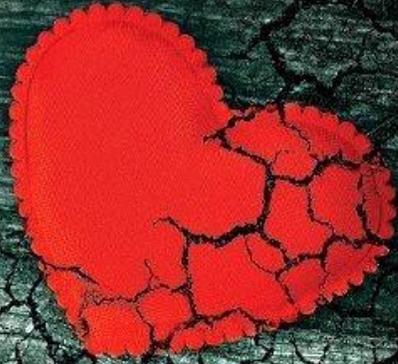

Nancy Stevens, a Seattle native, studied interior design and art at Seattle University. She and her [then] Army husband began married life by moving to Germany. The couple was stationed at numerous US military installations and her husband deployed to both Vietnam and Korea. They raised two kids and after 45 years of marriage Nancy suddenly discovered her husband had found another woman and was divorcing her. The next ten years were spent navigating an unimaginable divorce. Nancy hopes her experiences and lessons learned will be helpful to those facing similar journeys.

Published by Clovercroft Publishing, Now What? Navigating an Unimaginable Divorce by Nancy Stevens, August 2020, is available in soft cover and ebook formats nationally and globally wherever books are sold.

Clovercroft Publishing
256 pages 5.5 x 8.5
ISBN 978-1-950829-50-1 soft cover $14.99
ISBN 978-1-950892-60-0 ebook $7.99

###

NOW WHAT?

Navigating an Unimaginable Divorce

Nancy Stevens